TURN, TURN, TURN >>

For extra-fluffy stove-top popcorn, gather loved ones around Lehman's Stainless Steel Popcorn Popper and take turns at the old-timey hand crank. $49.95; lehmans.com

ALL MIXED UP >>

The sleek Cuisinart EasyPop Plus Flavored Popcorn Maker mixes in all your toppings for you and comes with its own bowl—just flip and serve. $79.95; cuisinart.com

POP STAR

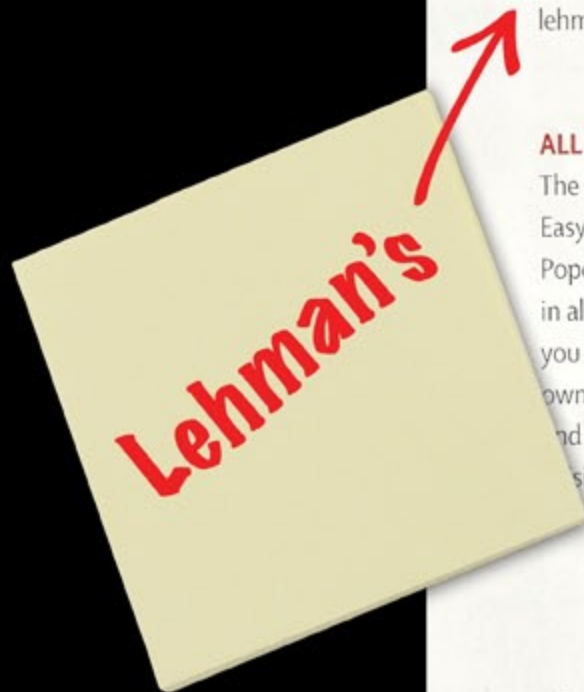

Avoid GMOs by picking the organic, heirloom corn in 479° Popcorn Schoolyard Pop. All proceeds benefit Urban Sprouts, a nonprofit that helps kids build gardens. $14; 479popcorn.com

TRUFFLING MATTER

Truffle oils often get their earthy flavor from a chemical compound. We like drizzling popcorn with Da Rosario White Truffle Flavored Olive Oil, made with real, organic truffles. $36.95/8 oz.; gilltaste.com

THROWBACK BOWL

These melamine bowls are as cute and cheery as old movie-theater popcorn bags, but you can use them again and again. $14.95/8-inch; surlatable.com

Make your own gourmet popcorn with these 5 fresh finds

Forget microwave popcorn and the salty, buttery tubs you get at movie theaters. Making popcorn from scratch—in an electric or stove-top popper—gives you total control over ingredients (and provides a fun project for kids too). Feeling adventurous? Turn the page for some creative toppings suggested by readers.
