HOW TO SPEND TWO HOURS IN A HARDWARE STORE

This is not just a store; it is a destination. This is my third visit to Amish Country since moving to Ohio 5 years ago, and each time a visit to Lehman's is on the top of the list. Each room offers such a unique shopping experience even if you don't plan to buy anything. The candy shop is loaded with one of a kind treats. Even the area of farm production type tools is fascinating. Plan to spend at least two hours here. Yes, you can even sit down and have a meal here. Can't wait to bring my aunt here who will love Lehman's

HEATING WITH WOOD: CHOOSING THE RIGHT FIREWOOD

By Patrick Gilliam

The first real step to heating with wood is to find the wood that is to be processed into fuel. Around half of my property is wooded in various hardwoods, from hickory, oak and locust to softer hardwoods like poplar, sycamore and sasafraass. There is lots of deadfall and lots of trees that can be cut and worked up into dandy stacks of firewood. However, I leave these woods be. I never cut a living tree with the sole purpose of making firewood.

Aladdin Lamps

Lehman's in Kidron, OH is home to the only Museum of Light in the country. Thanks to the avid collectors the Knights of Aladdin, the museum boasts rare salesman samples, as well as a complete history of the iconic brand. Founded in the early 1900s, Aladdin introduced the first mantle (incandescent burner), that burned brighter and hotter than any other lamp on the market. Which meant you no longer had to go to bed when the sun went down, because now you had a bright interior light source.

Galen Lehman, son of founder Jay Lehman and CEO

"An Aladdin lamp is the one lamp to have in a disaster. It burns with a bright, white, "electric-like" light, thanks to its incandescent mantle. It uses less fuel than any other wick lamp while producing about six times more light. It's totally silent and requires no complicated pumping. And, when you couple it with our exclusive three-year parts kit, it means you have a lamp that will be ready when you need it. I have three Aladdin Lamps in my home, including a Genie (which is the best value of any Aladdin lamp)."

From our CEO, Galen Lehman

I've long been a believer in hand-ground coffee. I knew from experience that a good hand-turned coffee mill makes a perfect grind. By contrast, the handheld electric mills I tested produced unhealthy electromagnetic fields, were loud and made unevenly ground coffee. I decided to design a grinder that really worked well, and that wasn't just a cheap reproduction of an old pattern.

I wanted functional performance. So, I started with grinding burrs that are made from ceramic media. Ceramics are used to grind tough materials like glass, so they are almost indestructible. They are precision tooled, guaranteeing consistent performance. Whether you want your coffee fine (for espresso) or coarse (for cold brewed or French press coffee), this mill reliably produces an even grind. Then, I coupled the grinder with a standard ball jar. Just screw on a jar lid after grinding and you have an air tight storage container!

I also wanted it to be affordable. You can certainly find cheaper coffee mills, but I've never found one that works well! Our mill, by contrast, works as well as coffee mills costing twice as much.
